Market Outlook

Growing demand for F&B products and services. The projected growth in Singapore's population to 6.9 million by 2030 will translate into higher demand for F&B products and services. Singapore 2022's unemployment rate at 2.1% has also reached below pre-pandemic levels. The gross monthly income of workers in Singapore has also been steadily rising over the past 5 years. This could translate to an increase in monthly F&B expenditure by Singapore consumers. YKGI will be able to ride on this higher demand through the expansion of its portfolio of F&B business and operations.

According to Singstats, Sales of food & beverage (F&B) services grew by 17.8% YoY in March 2023 following the 21.6% YoY increase in February 2023. This growth is mainly attributed to the easing of COVID-19 Safe Management Measures as Singapore emerge from the pandemic. Looking forward, Singapore's F&B industry is bound to grow more steadily in 2023 as Covid-19 measures are eased and employees are returning to the office as well.

Expanding Global Bubble Tea Market. The global bubble tea market is also expected to grow with a CAGR of 7.9% from US$2.7bn in 2022 to US$5.04bn in 2030, according to Verified Market Research. With Singapore being fourth in Bubble Tea spending in Southeast Asia, the trend of higher consumption of bubble tea in the Singapore market presents attractive prospects for the Group with regard to its plans to expand its CHICHA San Chen franchise business given the popularity of bubble tea with consumers in Singapore.

New trends within the F&B industry. The F&B industry within Singapore was hard hit by the Covid-19 pandemic, with the government imposing many restrictions on dining-in and lockdowns, and is still on route to recovery to pre-pandemic levels. This has brought along many changes within the F&B industry, including transforming F&B services with technology in order to make business operations more efficient and profitable. It is thus important for YKGI to constantly adapt and upgrade itself alongside these market trends to maintain a competitive edge within the industry.

Company Outlook

Diving deeper into the Singapore market. The group is open and constantly on the lookout for acquisition opportunities of companies that already have an established brand and market presence offering complementary food products but remain focused on streamlining the business of its current brands, becoming more established within the Singapore market, and slowly expanding their current brands overseas. A high focus is placed on finding the right location to open new outlets to drive revenue for the Group.

Expanding the business overseas. The group aims to expand its CHICHA San Chen into Macau as its initial focus and Yew Kee Duck Rice into other countries within Southeast Asia within the next 5 years. The company is already in talks with landlords from Macau for potential outlets of CHICHA San Chen to be established, leveraging on the Group's Chief Operating Office market knowledge in Macau.

In the near term, it is important for YKGI to assess opportunities to expand its brands deeper within Singapore's markets to continue to drive revenue for the company. In the mid-term, the easing of international travel restrictions put some light on the Group to expand its business overseas but is still dependent on how fast the China economy recovers to the pre-pandemic level.

Competitors. The F&B industry in Singapore is highly competitive and has relatively low entry barriers. YKGI competes on various factors, such as pricing and quality of food products and services, particularly in the price-sensitive hawker and food court segments, as well as the location of each F&B outlet to drive revenue.

Local competitors include Old Chang Kee, ABR Holdings in the area of F&B operations that have multiple brand offerings, Food Republic and Kopitiam in the area of food court management, and Koi, Gong Cha, and Li Ho in the area of franchising and sub-franchising of their CHICHA San Chen tea shops.
